FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS, AND RECOMMENDATION OF THE UNITED STATES MAGISTRATE JUDGE

“A jury found [Petitioner] Darron Antoine Dewayne Taylor guilty of aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon, found an enhancement paragraph alleged in the indictment true, and assessed punishment of forty years’ confinement.” Taylor v. State, 05-16-00971-CR, 2017 WL 2334240 (Tex. App. – Dallas May 30, 2017, pet. ref’d), aff’g as modified State v. Taylor, F-1575260-R (265th Jud. Dist. Ct., Dall. Cnty., Tex.). And the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals (the CCA) refused Taylor’s petition for discretionary review. See Taylor v. State, PD-0619-17 (Tex. Crim. App. Nov. 15, 2017).

Taylor then sought habeas relief. The CCA denied Taylor’s state habeas petition without written order. See Ex parte Taylor, WR-89,986-01 (Tex. Crim. App. July 3, 2019). And Taylor’s initial application for a writ of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2254 was denied. See Taylor v. Dir., TDCJ-CID, No. 3:19-cv-1911-L-BN, 2021 WL 6274585 (N.D. Tex. Sept. 16, 2021), rec. accepted, 2022 WL 35773 (N.D. Tex. Jan. 4, 2022).

Taylor now returns to federal court with a second Section 2254 application challenging his aggravated robbery conviction [Dkt. No. 3], which Senior United States District Judge A. Joe Fish referred to the undersigned United States magistrate judge for pretrial management under 28 U.S.C. § 636(b) and a standing order of reference.

The undersigned enters these findings of fact, conclusions of law, and recommendation that, because the Court lacks jurisdiction to consider the successive petition, this action should be transferred to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit for appropriate action.

“A state prisoner is entitled to one fair opportunity to seek federal habeas relief from his conviction. But he may not usually make a ‘second or successive habeas corpus application.’” Banister v. Davis, 140 S. Ct. 1698, 1702 (2020) (quoting 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)). As such, Section 2244 lays out the requirements for filing successive petitions, serving as gate-keeper by preventing the repeated filing of habeas petitions that attack the prisoner’s underlying conviction. The statute does not define “second or successive,” however, and we have made clear that a petition is not “second or successive” merely because it is numerically second.

Later habeas petitions attacking the same judgment that was attacked in a prior petition tend to be labeled successive and must meet the standards for authorization under § 2244. In contrast, later habeas petitions attacking distinct judgments, administration of an inmate’s sentence, a defective habeas proceeding itself, or some other species of legal error – when the error arises after the underlying conviction – tend to be deemed non-successive. In essence, if the purported defect existed, or the claim was ripe, at the time of the prior petition, the later petition is likely to be held successive even if the legal basis for the attack was not. If, however, the purported defect did not arise, or the claim did not ripen, until after the conclusion of the previous petition, the later petition based on that defect may be non-successive.

Leal Garcia v. Quarterman, 573 F.3d 214, 220, 222 (5th Cir. 2009) (footnotes omitted).

Taylor previously exercised his “one fair opportunity to seek federal habeas relief from [this] conviction,” Banister, 140 S. Ct. at 1702. And his current petition raises defects in the conviction that “existed ... at the time of the [first federal] petition ... even if the legal basis for the [current] attack was not” known to Taylor when he filed the initial Section 2254 action. Leal Garcia, 573 F.3d at 222; see also Ramos v. Davis, 653 F. App’x 359, 364 (5th Cir. 2016) (per curiam) (“Where a petitioner seeks ‘to add a new ground for relief’ that was or could have been raised in an earlier federal habeas application” – including a claim of actual innocence – a court “must treat it as a second or successive habeas petition.” (quoting Williams v. Thaler, 602 F.3d 291, 305 (5th Cir. 2010) (citing, in turn, Gonzalez v. Crosby, 545 U.S. 524, 532 (2005)))).¹

Because the current claims are successive, Taylor’s failure to first obtain authorization from the Fifth Circuit under 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)(3) deprives the district court of jurisdiction to consider the current Section 2254 application. See, e.g., Leal

¹ See also In re Will, 970 F.3d 536, 540 (5th Cir. 2020) (per curiam) (“So even though Will did not know of the State’s alleged Brady violation at the time he filed his first habeas petition, it is still subject to AEDPA’s statutory requirements for filing a successive petition.” (citation omitted)); Leal Garcia, 573 F.3d at 221 (“[P]etitioners filing later habeas petitions [may not] assert that, because the evidence was not previously discovered or discoverable, the claim was unavailable; therefore, the later petition is non-successive.... AEDPA forbids such a reading: Section 2244(b)(2)(B)(i) states that claims based on a factual predicate not previously discoverable are successive.”); Blackman v. Stephens, No. 3:13-cv-2073-P-BN, 2015 WL 694953, at *6 (N.D. Tex. Feb. 18, 2015) (“Petitioner’s claims raised in her third federal habeas application attack purported defects that existed or claims that were ripe at the time of the prior applications even though Petitioner claims that the evidence to support and identify those claims was not previously discovered or discoverable.” (citing Leal Garcia, 573 F.3d at 221-22)).

Garcia, 573 F.3d at 219 (“AEDPA requires a prisoner to obtain authorization from the federal appellate court in his circuit before he may file a ‘second or successive’ petition for relief in federal district court. Without such authorization, the otherwise-cognizant district court has no jurisdiction to entertain a successive § 2254 petition.” (footnotes omitted)).

But, as this appears to be Taylor’s first successive federal habeas petition as to this state conviction, the Court should cure this want of jurisdiction by transferring this action to the Fifth Circuit for appropriate action. See 28 U.S.C. § 1631.

Recommendation

The Court should transfer Petitioner Darron Antoine Dewayne Taylor’s successive application for a writ of habeas corpus under 28 U.S.C. § 2254 to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit for appropriate action.

A copy of these findings, conclusions, and recommendation shall be served on all parties in the manner provided by law. Any party who objects to any part of these findings, conclusions, and recommendation must file specific written objections within 14 days after being served with a copy. See 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); FED. R. CIV. P. 72(b). In order to be specific, an objection must identify the specific finding or recommendation to which objection is made, state the basis for the objection, and specify the place in the magistrate judge’s findings, conclusions, and recommendation where the disputed determination is found. An objection that merely incorporates by reference or refers to the briefing before the magistrate judge is not specific. Failure to file specific written objections will bar the aggrieved party from appealing the factual findings and legal conclusions of the magistrate judge that are accepted or adopted by the district court, except upon grounds of plain error. See Douglass v. United Servs. Auto. Ass'n, 79 F.3d 1415, 1417 (5th Cir. 1996).
